Dallas Sells Fashion

Southwest Business' front cover this month recognizes both the fashion prestige and the business importance of the Dallas Apparel Market. The Market's Spring, 1940 buying season, January 22-February 10 (see page 5) is the first index to the business trends of the 1940's.

Dallas' manufacturing and wholesale market, like its retail market, is far famed as a fashion center. Its manufacturers of dresses, millinery, lingerie, hosiery and accessories create and merchandise distinctive fashions for the Southwest. By cooperation and an unusual amount of showmanship, the Dallas Apparel Market has made its Southwestern Style Shows the most famous in the country.

Southwest Business Salutes the Leading Life Insurance Underwriters for the Month of December

SOUTHWEST BUSINESS gladly salutes and pays well deserved tribute to Dennis G. Colwell, who has lead the Dennis G. Colwell Agency, Dallas, Texas, Midland Life Insurance Co., for the past eight consecutive years, in production.

The Life Underwriter

The Life Underwriter is saluted by Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, who recently, in a salute to the institution of life insurance, said:

"Life insurance, through the activities of the life underwriter, has done more to promote the unity of the family than any other agency. Life insurance, indeed, has been one of the great forces for preservation of constitutional democracy in the United States."

The Following Underwriters are the Leaders for Their Companies This Past Month

A. M. RAMSOUR, Tyler
Jefferson Standard Life Insurance
Co.

Realizing, perhaps more fully than the average business man, the important place Dallas occupies in the insurance world . . . as the fourth, and possibly the third, largest insurance center in the United States, SOUTHWEST BUSINESS is happy to salute a number of Dallas Life Underwriters who are among those leading the parade of these most useful citizens and to quote for several months the tributes paid these and their fellow workers by a number of prominent men and institutions.

DALLAS' MARKET ENTERS A NEW ERA

ONE of the best and most accurate indications of the business trend for 1940 will be registered in Dallas during the semi-annual Spring Market Season, January 22-February 10.

At that time, several thousand retail merchants from all sections of the Southwest and from many of the border states of the West, Middle West and Old South will come to Dallas to buy their Spring stocks of merchandise. Their primary interest will be women's apparel—shoes, hosiery, lingerie, dresses, hats, coats and accessories. Many of them, however, will also buy general merchandise—hardware, house furnishings, electrical appliances and sporting goods—during their visits in the Dallas Market.

Lawrence S. Pollock, newly-elected president of the Dallas Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association, a division of the Chamber of Commerce, voiced the belief of the Market that the Spring season will continue uninterrupted the business gains registered during the closing months of 1939. He predicted that 1940 will be the best business year the Southwest has seen since 1937, and also that the decade just entered will bring the Southwest the greatest growth and prosperity in its history.

The year-to-year, season-to-season, consistent growth of the Dallas Market has been based upon a number of highly favorable factors, Mr. Pollock said.

"First and foremost is the accessibility of the Dallas Market," he explained. "Dallas is centrally located to the entire Southwest, to a large area of the Middle West, to such states in the Old South as Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama, and to such Western states as Arizona.

"For all this vast area, Dallas is not only the nearest and most accessible Market, but also the most complete Market. It can supply any item of merchandise the retailer needs, from baby dresses to evening gowns, from seeds and garden tools to house furnishings.

"Still another important factor is the Market's service facilities. Half the population of the entire Southwest is within the radius of first morning freight delivery service from Dallas. Much of the remainder is within first afternoon delivery service, and practically all of it is within second morning delivery service. Dallas' nine main line railroads, three air-lines, one electric interurban system, and numerous bus and motor freight lines give it unexcelled transportation facilities.

"Also, the retail merchants of the Southwest know Dallas as their friendly market. Dallas has grown as a manufacturing and distributing center as the Southwest has grown in population and buying power. Now that the Southwest constitutes one-eighth of the national market, with one-seventh of the nation's buying power, the Dallas Market ranks fourteenth in the nation in volume of wholesale business, fifth in volume as an apparel market, and even higher in a number of classifications. But with its growth, the Dallas Market has never lost touch with the retail merchants of the Southwest; it remains their friendly market. The average retailer is a personal friend of the ranking executives of the Dallas Market. They know his problems, his background, his needs and his opportunities as no other market could. These ties of personal friendship between the top-flight executives of the Dallas Market and their retail customers have been welded through the years; they count for a great deal in the success of the market.

FRIENDS AND ADVOCATES OF THE

SOUTHWEST DEMONSTRATES UNITE

MOVING through the offices of the U. S. War Department Corps of Engineers and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are reports recently completed by the two Federal agencies after a year of intensive study—reports upon which the entire Southwest is staking much of its confidence in future growth and development.

The reports, when combined in Washington early this year, will give the most complete, the most graphic picture of an entire river watershed that has ever been obtained. Together, they will present the results of exhaustive surveys looking toward the scientific, economic improvement of the Trinity River watershed, including flood control, soil and water conservation, navigation, reclamation, alleviation of stream pollution, conservation of wild life, and storage of water for municipal, industrial and agricultural uses.

John W. Carpenter of Dallas, for years one of the key leaders in the movement for the Trinity improvement program, president of the Trinity Improvement Association, voiced the confidence of his association that the reports of the army engineers and the Department of Agriculture will be favorable.

Impressive evidence of the unanimity with which the entire Southwest hopes for early completion of this far-reaching watershed program was furnished at the annual banquet of the Trinity Improvement Association in Dallas, at the Hotel Adolphus, in December.

Nearly 1,400 men and women gathered at the dinner meeting. They came by the hundreds from Fort Worth. They came from every section of Texas, and from every county in the Trinity watershed from Fort Worth to the Gulf of Mexico. They came from Oklahoma, from Arkansas and Louisiana. They came from Chicago and from New Orleans. And Dallas, host city to this most representative gathering of the civic and business leaders of the Southwest, demonstrated its own interest by one of the largest attendances at a meeting of this kind in history.

Amon Carter of Fort Worth, chairman of the executive committee of the Trinity Improvement Association, was toastmaster at the dinner meeting. Mr. Carpenter, president of the association presided and was one of the principal speakers. Others were Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, and Col. Roger G. Powell of New Orleans, division engineer of the Army Corps of Engineers, who spoke when Maj. Gen. Julian Schley, chief of the army corps, was unable to attend.

"The Trinity surveys just completed are the most thorough and comprehensive ever made of any river watershed," Mr. Carpenter told the big audience of Southwestern leaders at the meeting.

He added his firm conviction that the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Department of Agriculture will make favorable reports on the Trinity Improvement program, reports which he predicted will be coordinated early in 1940 and submitted to the Congress, perhaps at its current session.

"Texas senators and congressmen already have told us they will work for the project," Mr. Carpenter continued. "We should be elated over the fine prospects. It's the finest thing we've ever had to work for for the benefit of the entire Southwest, this matter of making the old Trinity a useful servant."

Col. Powell explained the procedure of placing a waterways project before the Congress, and called attention to the ever-increasing importance of the Texas Gulf ports, which in 1938 handled 96,000,000 tons of shipping. He emphasized

WHITE INTEREST IN TRINITY PROGRAM

ed the importance of the Intracoastal canal as a link in the nation's system of inland waterways. The Trinity River, when made navigable, will be one of the most important feeder systems to the Intracoastal Canal, which in turn links with the Mississippi River and the entire inland waterways system.

Senator Sheppard, who is chairman of the Senate military affairs committee, pointed out the close relationship between the Federal government's rivers and harbors improvements and national defense.

"The experience of the World War of 1914-18 taught us that river navigability is an extremely important element in industrial mobilization," Senator Sheppard said. "In time of need, much of the usual tonnage in business and trade may be diverted to the river carriers, releasing cars and trucks for the speedy transportation of troops and the more necessary materials of war."

"In passing on the Trinity project the government engineers will consider not alone the direct savings in freight charges, extensive as they are, carefully as they have been ascertained. They will pass upon the projects from the standpoint of such other important and far-reaching navigation benefits as the stimulation of agriculture and trade, the expansion of industry, the promotion of the interchange of products between sections hitherto inaccessible to each other, as well as flood control, soil conservation, prevention of erosion, removal of pollution, national defense, so that potential public benefits can be weighed against costs of improvement. The possibilities for the commercial, agricultural, financial and general economic growth of the Trinity basin, Fort Worth, Dallas and the rest of the Southwest with the help of water transportation are beyond calculation."

Senator Connally stressed the importance of soil conservation, along with flood control and navigation, in the Trinity improvement plans. He said the reports on the Trinity watershed will guide and influence the Congress in enacting a national policy to utilize and conserve soil and water resources.

"The Trinity River," he said, "drains an area of 11,000,000 acres. Denuding much of this territory of trees and grass, and putting the land to the plow without adequate measures of conservation have resulted in wasteful and devastating erosion.

"Fertility has been reduced. It has been estimated that the damage from floods in this area alone is $2,500,000 annually.

"Our people have been aroused to the importance of soil and water conservation. The government will gladly supply leadership and cooperation, but landowners, farmers and all others must lend their hearty cooperation too."

Representative Price Daniel of Liberty, Texas told how that city raised money to clear the Trinity of snags from Liberty to Galveston Bay, and how a nine-foot channel, 100 feet wide, is now being completed upriver to Liberty. This improvement will make the Trinity navigable for the lower one-tenth of the entire distance from Galveston Bay to Fort Worth.

Mr. Carter hailed the meeting itself as testimony to the universality and the strength of the Southwest's interest in the Trinity watershed program.

There has been no public announcement on the progress of the War Department and Department of Agriculture survey reports since the December meeting. The army engineers' report is understood to be in the New Orleans division office, where an exhaustive check is being made on its findings. The Department of Agriculture report is in Washington, where similar careful study is being made of it. After the two agencies complete their studies, the reports will be ready for coordination and submission to the Congress.

Federal Loans-Grants in Texas Total $375,177,515

Loans and outright expenditures of the Federal Government in Texas during the 1939 fiscal year which ended last June 30, amounted to $375,177,515, according to a statement by B. Frank White, acting state director for the office of government reports. This compares with a total of $51,348,643 expended during the prior fiscal year of 1938.

Loans totaled $121,874,007, and grants-in-aid and other expenditures amounted to $253,303,508. In addition, the Federal Housing Administration insured $47,570,026 worth of housing improvement notes and mortgages in the state. The largest amount of loans, $58,363,756, was made by the Commodity Credit Corporation, and the greatest amount of direct expenditures, $95,661,701, was disbursed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

1940 TAX CALENDAR

The following Tax Calendar sets forth the more important taxes which individuals, partnerships and corporations located in Dallas, Texas, are subject to, based on the laws as they stood at December 15, 1939. There are numerous Federal excise taxes, estate taxes, and other special taxes which are not listed on the Calendar. Also omitted are the numerous City occupation taxes and special State taxes.

The Calendar should serve as a reminder as to when reports and tax payments are due. Upon receiving the Calendar you should circle in red the reports which you must file for the year 1940. Squares have been provided in which you can place a check mark as the reports are filed and tax payments made (where payment date is different from filing date).

CHAMBER REELECTS OFFICERS

J. B. ADOUE, JR., whose 1939 administration as president of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce has been hailed as one of the most successful in the organization's history, was reelected at the meeting of directors of the Chamber Friday, January 5.

Along with Mr. Adoue, four other officers of the Chamber were also reelected. They were First Vice President B. F. McLain, Second Vice President A. H. Bailey, Treasurer E. J. Gannon, Jr., and National Councilor George Waverley Briggs.

B. B. Owen was elected third vice president to succeed Harry S. Moss, whose term as a director had expired, and who was ineligible to reelection under the Chamber's constitution.

The reelection of President Adoue and Vice Presidents McLain and Bailey and the election of Mr. Owen were recommended by the nominating committee, of which Nathan Adams was chairman. D. A. Little and John E. Owens were other members of the committee.

Mr. Adams said, in presenting the nominations:

"Our committee feels that these men have done excellent work in 1939, and that they should be given full opportunity to continue their fine record in 1940."

Mr. Adams moved the election of the committee's nominees, and R. L. Thornton seconded the motion. The voice vote was unanimous, with Director Paul Carrington presiding. Ernest Tennant then moved the reelection of Mr. Gannon and Mr. Briggs. This vote was also unanimous.

Mr. Adoue is president of the National Bank of Commerce, president of the Dallas Morris Plan Bank, and chairman of the board of the Baker Hotel of Dallas. He is a member of the City of Dallas Public Affairs Committee. He is a native Dallasite.

Mr. McLain is president and general manager of the Hart Furniture Co. He is a director of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S., president of the Dallas Retail Merchants Association, and past president of the Dallas, Texas and National Retail Furniture Associations.

Mr. Bailey is president and general manager of the Higginbotham-Bailey-Logan Co., vice president of the Higginbotham-Pearlstone Hardware Co., and a former president of the Dallas Manufacturers and Wholesalers division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Owen was formerly an automobile dealer. He is now engaged in the investment business. A reserve captain in the U. S. Army Air Corps, he has long served ably and well as chairman of the Chamber's aviation committee. He is also vice chairman of the City of Dallas Aviation Board.

Both Mr. Gannon and Mr. Briggs are vice presidents of the First National Bank in Dallas. Mr. Briggs is a former president of the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Gannon is also a member of the Dallas City Council.

Ample evidence that the Chamber's choice of officers met with community-wide approval was furnished by almost simultaneous editorials in the three Dallas daily newspapers. Excerpts from the editorials follow:

Dallas Journal—"J. B. Adoue's reelection to the presidency of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce assures a continuation of the businesslike and forward-looking administration that has marked the year just closed. With a strong board behind him and the finances of the C. of C. in the best shape they have been in since the purchase of the home on Commerce, this organization of Dallas business men will be helpful and influential in bringing added industries to Dallas and widening the Dallas market."

The Dallas News—" . . . J. B. Adoue, Jr., president, and the Chamber's other officers have made a highly creditable record in the last year, and the directors are following a safe policy in continuing them in office for the period in which the city must plan its big 1941 centennial celebration. In bringing conventions and new industries to Dallas, the Chamber of Commerce has been highly successful. But its activities have not been limited to these fields. It has backed Trinity River canalization and many other needed projects and has given support to the city's civic, educational and cultural institutions. It is helping to give Dallas the kind of advertising that will bear fruit long into the future. Mr. Adoue and his associates do not confine their attention to the city's immediate problems but also look ahead to the community's future needs . . . "

The Times Herald—"The reelection of J. B. Adoue, Jr. to the presidency of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce was to be expected in view of the fine record made by the chamber during the last year. . . . The Dallas Chamber of Commerce is growing in both membership and usefulness . . . It enters the new year with prospects of unusual achievement. Congratulations for good work during 1939 are due not only President Adoue, other officers and directors, but to J. Ben Critz, vice president and general manager, and his entire staff."

Building News

The Highland Park Presbyterian Church has awarded contracts for the construction of its new auditorium, adjoining its present Sunday School building on McFarlin Boulevard. The building's total cost is expected to be $250,000.

Carl Brown, developer of Casa Linda Estates at the intersection of Buckner Boulevard and the Garland Road, has announced plans for a shopping center to be constructed this year. A theater, bank and a number of store buildings will be included in the center.

The Dallas Board of Education is completing plans for a $200,000 addition to Technical High School, and a new $300,000 Junior High School in South Dallas. Tentatively scheduled on the public schools' building program is another elementary school.

Fire Chief L. M. Funk has announced that the City of Dallas probably will construct at least five new fire department stations during 1940, to keep pace with rapidly spreading residential districts and extensions of city limits.

Trinity Universal Insurance Company has purchased the northeast corner of Main and Harwood Streets, opposite the City Hall and the White-Plaza Hotel, as a site for a 10- or 12-story home office building. The property fronts 125 feet on Main Street and 90 feet on Harwood. Trinity Universal, organized in Dallas in 1926, does a nationwide business, and employs more than 200 persons. Edward T. Harrison is president of the company.

Extensive remodeling programs on two buildings are involved in recently completed leases in the retail district. Linz Brothers jewelers leased the two-story building at 1608 Main Street, which will be completely remodeled for this pioneer Dallas firm. Philipson's Women's and Misses' Wear, present tenant in the building, took a long-term lease on the ground floor corner of the Tower Petroleum Building. The Rio Grande National Life Insurance Co., which last year purchased from Linz Brothers the eight-story office building at Main and Martin Streets, plans a complete remodeling of the building when Linz Brothers move to their new location.

Nuestra Industria

Editor's Note: That Texas is a rich agricultural and cattle-raising region is well known; but that Dallas and Texas also have an enormous industrial production is not as well known as it should be. Our Spanish article this month is therefore devoted to telling readers of Spanish about the greatness of Dallas' and Texas' industries — about the production of motors and engines of all kinds, pumps, paints, varnishes, cement, asphalt, and all other building materials; about chemical products, cosmetics, paper, petroleum, and heavy agricultural and industrial machinery, and of our firm resolve that Dallas and Texas shall take their places in the export trade to which their production of these things entitles them.

La ciudad de Dallas y el estado de Texas son regiones agrícolas y ganaderas bien conocidas, pero muy poco se ha hablado de ellas, y en general son poco conocidas como a regiones de grande potencialidad industrial.

Dallas geográficamente está tan bien situada que es en realidad el corazón no sólo de Texas pero del sur-oeste y ésta es una de las razones por las cuales se ha convertido y es sin duda alguna la arteria principal y el nervio más poderoso del desarrollo comercial é industrial de esta región. La región de Dallas produce el 73% anual de petróleos crudos en los Estados Unidos de Norte-América. Dallas por ser el centro de este mismo territorio controla la agricultura de esta misma región. Debido a estas dos causas principales las que por si solas son suficientemente grandes, nuestra industria se ha podido desarrollar en formas gigantescas ya que en su mismo territorio tiene el mercado de su producción.

La agricultura nos ha permitido desarrollar toda clase de maquinaria agrícola é industrial no sólo para el cultivo de nuestras tierras sino que también para el proceso de transformación de las materias primas a productos manufacturados. La industria petrolera nos ha permitido desarrollar la industria metalúrgica hasta tal punto que hoy día construimos motores de todas clases: eléctricos, Diesel, de gas, y a vapor, bombas de todas clases, siendo ésta una de las industrias metalúrgicas más desarrolladas en Texas. En materiales de construcción, fabricamos completamente toda la línea, siendo una de sus líneas más fuertes la fabricación de pinturas, barnices, tintes, etc. En manufacturas de papel y sus productos no sólo controlamos nuestro territorio natural, sino que invadimos territorios y mercados a unas 1500 millas de distancia.

No debemos olvidar que nuestra producción de cementos es enorme, productos de asfalto, yeso, y amianto. En productos químicos y farmacéuticos particularmente los que tienen como a base aceites minerales, nuestra producción es completa.

En cosméticos, perfumería, artículos para tocador y belleza el desarrollo es tan fantástico que ya obtiene proporciones gigantescas.

Diran muchos porque pues si esta industria es tan poderosa ya, porque su ambición no llegó hasta ahora a la potencialidad de exportación. Porque las firmas que han tenido esta ambición sus negocios de exportación han estado a cargo de firmas establecidas en el norte ó este de los Estados Unidos, dando lugar a que se perdiera la identidad de sus productos y de su punto de origen. Pues muy sencillamente por falta de conocimiento de los negocios de exportación, por falta de relaciones en el extranjero, y de medios prácticos para desarrollar su comercio exterior sin gastos grandes y sin posibilidades de quebranto, pero NO por falta de empuje y de varonalidad.

and prosperity*

Forty years ago the Southwest was still a frontier country. It was sparsely settled. It depended upon agriculture, livestock raising and lumbering for its livelihood. It had no big cities. It had few attractions for industry.

Today the Southwest is the fastest growing region in America. It has great cities, and even its smaller cities have doubled and trebled in population. Its buying power has more than kept pace with the increase in population. It has come through the worst depression in history with so few scars that people in other regions say enviously, "You didn't even have a depression down there." Population and buying power have made the Southwest today one of America's major markets—and industry is moving Southwestward to serve this great market from within.

Why has this transformation come to the Southwest?

No single explanation can be given, of course. But much of the change can be traced directly to the petroleum industry—an industry which is concentrated largely in the Southwest; an industry which affects vitally the lives of every man, woman and child in the Southwest.

Forty years ago the oil industry was just in its infancy. Today, its cumulative investments in Texas alone will probably total $8,000,000,000. The oil industry has been the very keystone of this region's development and prosperity in recent years. It has stimulated emigration into the Southwest from the older sections of America; it has created payrolls to support this increased population; and the population increase, in turn, has created more business for the merchant, the banker, the insurance man, the manufacturer, the transportation agencies.

The Southwest would have obtained this growth ultimately, it is true. But the oil industry brought population and buying power far more rapidly than could have been foreseen at the turn of the century. It provided an additional diversification to balance the Southwest's dependence upon agriculture, livestock raising and lumbering. It has brought the Southwest to the point that it is the most attractive region in America for industry today, to the point that it holds greater promise for future development than any other section of the country.

Today, the oil industry is the greatest single source of wealth in the Southwest. Oil has replaced cotton as the economic king. It is conservatively estimated that more than 200,000 families in Texas alone are directly dependent upon the oil industry for their livelihood. Hundreds of thousands of others are indirectly dependent—because the margin of buying power provided by the oil industry has made, and maintains, the payrolls on which they exist. Taxes paid by the industry—direct and indirect, obvious and hidden—are so many and so great that practically every unit of government would be crippled if its revenues from the oil industry were cut off.

The oil industry is still young. The Southwest is still young. Together, they can achieve great things in the future.

Business institutions have contributed toward making possible the progress in this issue of Southwest Business.

Progress News from the Dallas Chamber of Commerce

EXECUTIVE

Manpower

Most important factor in the success of organization work is manpower—the human element. A Chamber of Commerce needs not only the financial support but the active interest of the men and women of its community. Their abilities and enthusiasms are mobilized through committees.

First concern of President J. B. Adoue, Jr. after his reelection early in January was to reenlist Dallas business men in the work of Chamber committees. Committee appointments were studied carefully. President Adoue called upon General Manager Ben Critz for recommendations. Manager Critz, in turn, asked for recommendations from the Chamber's staff. Out of many suggestions, President Adoue has carefully chosen the men whose appointments he will recommend. The list of committee recommendations was to be submitted to the board of directors at the January 19 meeting; Southwest Business will publish the complete list in the February issue.

Report on WORK

Two of the innovations made by the Dallas Chamber in connection with its annual meeting early in December were so good that the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. plans to tell its members throughout America about them.

Ben B. Lawshe, manager of the commercial organization department of the U. S. Chamber, wrote to General Manager Ben Critz of the Dallas Chamber that the latter's annual report, WORK, would be recommended to other chambers in a forthcoming bulletin of the U. S. Chamber.

"The cover on the report is one of the most attractive we have ever seen, and the report itself certainly reflects a comprehensive and well-balanced Chamber program," Mr. Lawshe wrote. He also stated that the bulletin will explain the "People of Dallas" program which the Chamber presented at its annual meeting.

Broader Horizons

Objectives of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce are being broadened constantly, General Manager Ben Critz reminded the Dallas Ad League at a recent meeting at which he was the principal speaker.

To the Members of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce

There is not much difference between managing a Chamber of Commerce and holding a political office. In either case you are forced to deal with public opinion which changes constantly, and human nature which never changes.

The politician finds it necessary to go before his voters—the Chamber manager his members—with highly controversial and competitive issues, regarding which there is always a difference of opinion, and if they command respect, both must stick to certain ideals and standards for the conduct of their affairs.

Both must depend upon cooperation and moral support from the people they represent.

Both find it necessary to occasionally disagree with and oppose certain elements in their organization, which eventually develops an accumulation of opposition.

Both are expected to please and contend with the whims and fancies of all the people—cure all the evils of business, and save the country.

Uncertainty dominates either position, and having been connected with both, I can truthfully say, it's a "whale of a job"—an interesting and useful experience.

But the patient understanding and unselfish support and cooperation given the Chamber staff and myself by most of our members makes up for all the difficulties that go with the job.

The staff joins me in pledging you our full capacity of loyalty and effort and with your continued generous cooperation we believe Dallas will experience a most successful 1940.

Respectfully yours,
J. BEN CRITZ,
Vice-President &
General Manager.

headquarters of the Widlar division of Standard Brands, Inc., which were moved to Dallas from Cleveland, O.

The headquarters offices were located in the Southland Life Building. H. F. Carson is general manager of the division. The removal to Dallas brought to a successful conclusion several months of work on the part of the Chamber's industrial department.

955 New Payrolls

Nine hundred and fifty-five new payrolls were brought to Dallas in 1939, the industrial department of the Chamber reported at year's end. Manager Clyde Wallis of the industrial department furnished the following breakdown on 955 new concerns that came to Dallas last year:

	Total
Manufacturing establishments	102
Wholesale	178
Retail	318
Oil	51
Miscellaneous	306
	<hr/> 955

In this total were 114 branches of national concerns, the majority of which were established in Dallas to serve the Southwest.

A City in Oils

On the press is Dallas: Oil Center, a 104-page book in which the Chamber's industrial department is publishing its complete, newly-compiled oil directory. Sections of the directory have been published in the December and January issues of Southwest Business.

Adopting the theory that there could be no more potent sales argument for Dallas as an oil center than the evidence of the number of units of the industry already located here, Industrial Manager Clyde Wallis lets the directory speak for itself. The book contains general information about Dallas, however, and also a number of general photographs showing homes, schools, amusements, sports and cultural attractions of the city.

Ten thousand copies of Dallas: Oil Center will be mailed to a carefully prepared list of the outstanding oil companies, supply companies, independent operators and other units of the industry throughout the United States.

DALLAS: OIL CENTER

By CLYDE V. WALLIS

DALLAS provides, in greater degree than any other city, a combination of facilities and advantages that is bringing a steady flow of producing and equipment companies to the city for the establishment of permanent executive headquarters. Below is a brief summary of what Dallas has to offer the industry:

Central Location: Southwest Business, in its December issue, published a map showing oil and gas fields of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico. These fields account for better than 70 per cent of the crude oil production of the United States and represent the greatest concentration of petroleum and natural gas resources in the world. The strategic location of Dallas with respect to all of these fields is obvious. Every important oil center is accessible overnight from Dallas, and freight shipments reach the most remote fields in not more than two days and a majority overnight.

Known petroleum reserves are distributed over the Southwest roughly in relation to producing areas, insuring the permanency of Dallas as headquarters for companies operating in the active fields.

The nature of the petroleum industry is such that there is a constant shifting of activity from one region to another because of new discoveries. It seldom happens, however, that the main sphere of action goes beyond the boundaries of the four states—Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. This means, of course, that companies with headquarters in Dallas are within easy reach of the fields now producing most of the nation's petroleum, and that future discoveries are likely to be readily accessible from Dallas.

Because of its central location, Dallas offers oil producing and supply companies many economies of operation with the establishment of general offices here. Distance is the all-important factor in time spent in traveling, in traveling expenses, in freight charges, and in communication expenses between headquarters and field operations.

On the map in the December issue of Southwest Business were shown 148 cities and towns that are important in the oil industry. In them are located offices and field operations of the producing and equipment concerns that are active in the Southwest.

The central location of Dallas gives it a distinct advantage in serving these points as compared with such cities as Houston and Tulsa, less centrally located with respect to this greatest oil region in the world. For example, the average distance by highway from Dallas to all of these 148 points is 261 miles, from Houston 364 miles, and from Tulsa 418 miles. This represents a saving in time in favor of Dallas over Houston of 40 per cent and in favor of Dallas over Tulsa of 60 per cent.

Since the cost of travel and the cost of telegraph and telephone charges are determined by distance, there is a similar saving in favor of Dallas over these less centrally located cities in these important expense items.

Central location also makes it possible to supervise operations in any part of the Southwest effectively from Dallas, making it unnecessary to maintain branch offices that are needed in many instances where executive offices are not centrally located. Thus, oil companies in Dallas save a great deal of administrative expense that would not be possible if they were less centrally located and had to maintain branch offices in the more active areas because of their distance from headquarters.

Companies that move to Dallas know their location is permanent because no matter where the next important discovery may be made it will in all probability be in one of the Southwestern states and therefore easily accessible from Dallas. Thus they are not compelled to move their general offices from time to time to keep up with developments in the industry. They feel free to make favorable long-term leases or erect their own buildings and their employees purchase homes with the assurance that they are permanently situated.

Companies that have in the past followed the policy of moving to the Gulf Coast region when there was activity in that section, to Oklahoma when the activity shifted to that scene, to West Texas when a discovery of importance was reported there, have found such moves to be expensive to themselves and disastrous to their personnel. A company that thus tries to follow developments always finds itself in the position of going into a city with an oil boom, requiring the payment of maximum prices for office accommodations and housing for personnel. When the action is over and the scene shifts to another location they find it necessary to move when everyone else is moving, which means that there is no market for any properties they or their employees may have acquired. Thus there is a tremendous loss to the company and to its personnel in this policy.

Oil companies that locate their general offices in Dallas do not encounter any of the difficulties that are involved in changing location with every new development in the industry. Dallas is far enough away from the oil fields to escape boom conditions in real estate that follow the discovery of oil and there has been no violent fluctuation of real estate prices or rentals. The city has a many-sided economic structure and there have been many contributing factors, all sound and stable, that have brought about its tremendous growth. Dallas has grown at a normal, steady rate over a period of years, insuring stable real estate values, so that companies may buy or erect buildings and employees may acquire homes at fair and normal prices and be protected in their investments.

Dallas has the lowest ad valorem tax rate of any major city in the Southwest. The Detroit Bureau of Municipal Research recently made a study of taxes in the principal cities of the United States, reducing all property taxes, city, school, county and state, to a common denominator as a basis of comparison. The report published by the Bureau shows the following net tax rates per $1,000 valuation (on a common denominator basis of assessment) in the cities listed:

Dallas	$19.24
Houston	23.55
San Antonio	23.56
Fort Worth	26.02
Tulsa	33.18

Corporation taxes are fair and equitable in Texas, and lower than in a great many states. There is no state income tax in Texas and no general sales tax. Because

OIL WELL

... Keep

To keep the wheels of the oil industry turning is the business of Dallas' 289 oil well supply companies. Through this great business the oil well supply industry contributes to the business and civic progress of Dallas. Oil Well Supplies Keep Many Wheels Turning!

Many Dallasites think of oil well supplies as necessities to help the development and maintenance of Texas' great oil fields. Oil well supplies sold in Dallas not only help to keep the 10,000 wheels turning but contribute greatly to the economic and civic progress of this city.

cessities two hundred eighty-nine firms engaged in supplying the oil industry maintain or contribute to the support of more than 10,000 Dallas citizens. The oil well supply business is one of Dallas' leading industries, reckoning its volume in millions of dollars.

The oil well supply companies of Dallas are pardonably proud of their memberships in the Dallas Chamber of Commerce—proud that this industry helps to turn the wheels of progress for a greater Dallas.

Among the Manufacturers

"If Dallas is to grow it must develop industrially." You have heard this said until it has no meaning; until it is so trite that you pass it by as you do a corner that you pass each day. This slogan, for so it has become, should be recast. As it stands it is misleading and it would be more accurate to say: "If Dallas is to grow it must keep on developing industrially." Every new month finds Dallas building new factories, new buildings, increasing its manufacturing output, and local capital seeking investment in Dallas industry. Each month SOUTHWEST BUSINESS brings to the attention of local people and the Nation as a whole industries in Dallas as pictured on this page.

RETAIL

School Nights

Directors of the Dallas Retail Merchants Association, a division of the Chamber, at their first meeting of the new year asked the Dallas Board of Education to institute night classes in "distributive education" for the employees of retail stores.

The vocational education is made possible under the George-Dean act, which provides for the matching of local, state and Federal funds. Retail division directors took their action upon the recommendations of a special committee which had been named last Fall to survey the need and demand for such classes. L. N. Bromberg was chairman of the committee.

Retail directors also authorized appointment of a committee on arrangements for the division's annual meeting, to be held in February jointly with the Dallas Advertising League. The committee, which will also make nominations of candidates for directors of the division, is composed of Eli Sanger, James K. Wilson and Otto Lang.

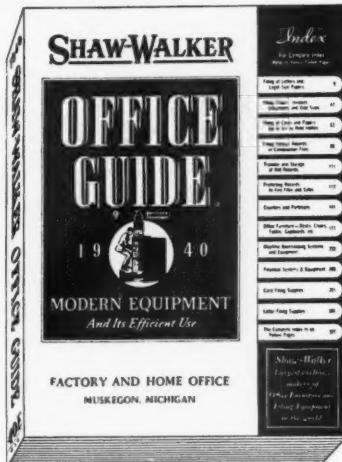

MARKET

Springtime

All the promotional work involved in bringing into the Dallas Market the retail merchants of the Southwest has kept Manager Bob Bourdene of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers division of the Chamber more than busy since mid-December.

The Market's Spring buying season opens January 22, to continue through February 10. All of the advertising—direct mail, trade magazine, newspaper and radio—has passed across Mr. Bourdene's desk. He has advised and counseled with members of the division on their preparations for the market season.

As the market season date nears, his hours lengthen. The peak of his work will be reached on the days of the two Southwestern Style Shows, which will be staged in Fair Park Auditorium the nights of January 23 and January 30. He is ex-officio secretary to the Southwestern Style Show Association, of which Ernest L. Blanchard is president. He has supervised construction of scenery for the shows, rehearsal of models, numerous other preparations. His final task will be the handling of the 5,000 tickets for each of the fashion revues.

Still another task cleared through the office of the Chamber's manufacturers and wholesalers division is the handling of railroad fare refunds, paid to retail merchants by a number of members of the division in ratio to their purchases in the market and the distances traveled.

Pollock for Pierce

Directors of the Dallas Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association, a division of the Chamber, elected Lawrence S. Pollock to the presidency of the division at their first meeting of the new year.

LAWRENCE S. POLLOCK

He succeeds George F. Pierce, whose 1939 administration was considered one of the organization's most successful years.

Other officers of the manufacturers-wholesalers division are O. H. Mann, first vice president; W. P. Craig, second vice president; Fred A. Brown, third vice president; and Bob Bourdene, manager.

South of the Border

South of the Rio Grande, and on through Mexico, Central America and South America, more and more information about the Dallas Market has been reaching Latin American business men for several months. A concerted publicity-educational campaign is being conducted south of the Rio Grande by the Dallas and North Texas Foreign Trade Association, a branch of the manufacturers-wholesalers division of the Chamber.

ber, in connection with the Dallas Market's Spring season. Manager Francisco Millet of the foreign trade agency has mailed 2,500 copies of the Southwestern Retailer, 1,000 copies of This Week in Dallas, and 400 copies of Southwest Business, each with its Spanish language section on the Dallas Market, to preferred prospects in the Latin American countries.

CONVENTIONS

Fatter Forties

Convention Manager Z. E. Black of the Chamber of Commerce has high hopes that the new decade, variously called the Flying Forties and the Faster Forties, will also be the Fatter Forties from the standpoint of convention business.

His 1940 convention calendar, published by the Chamber the first week in January, indicated that he probably will succeed in raising Dallas to new heights as a convention center during the new decade. His first edition of the 1940 calendar listed 212 conventions, meetings and special events, 25 more than were scheduled at the corresponding date in 1939. On the basis of the increase already shown, it is believed the 1940 total will reach 600, making this Dallas' best convention year since 1936.

Scientists' Holiday

Some 5,000 of America's foremost scientists will spend their Christmas holidays in Dallas in 1941. Their visits were assured January 1, when the American Association for the Advancement of Science, holding its 1939 meeting in Columbus, O., awarded its December, 1941 meeting to Dallas. The Association for Advancement of Science, and some twelve affiliated organizations, required that Dallas guarantee 3,000 hotel rooms, some 20 meeting halls. Mr. Black had worked on the important convention more than two years.

The scientists' convention was one of several important meetings awarded to Dallas in the first twelve days of 1940. In the aggregate, these meetings are valued at some $350,000 to the city. Others were: Texas Cotton Ginners Association, April 3-5, 1940; Texas-Oklahoma Shoe Retailers and Southwestern Shoe Travelers Associations, January, 1941; Texas Division Mathematical Association of America, April, 1940; the Southwest Inter-Seminary Conference, October, 1940; and a number of important sales conferences and meetings.

A best seller in photographs is the night scene of downtown Dallas, photographed by Lloyd M. Long. The remarkable photo was first published in Southwest Business last Spring. It has since been used time and time again in various mediums, and has been particularly effective in the Chamber's publicity work. Its latest use is on the front cover of the January issue of Manufacturers Record. The photo was furnished to the Manufacturers Record by the Chamber's publicity department.

Salute

Dallas was honored city on the Good Morning Salute program broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System's coast to coast hookup Friday, January 12. Data on which Columbia based its salute was furnished by the Dallas Chamber.

Future Events

● A specially prepared story, well illustrated, was written by the Chamber's publicity department for Caravan, magazine published by the National Hotel Management Co.

● A series of articles on Dallas is being published in the Christian Science Monitor, as the result of a recent visit to the city by Ralph Cessna, the Monitor's Midwestern editor. The Chamber's staff showed Dallas to Mr. Cessna and provided him with the statistical information needed for his articles. The first of the series—a front page story—was devoted to the hopes of Dallas and Fort Worth for an inland waterway over the Trinity River.

● In the April issue, the Ladies' Home Journal will give Dallas valuable publicity in its How America Lives series. Beginning with the February issue, the Home Journal is taking typical families in principal American cities, and presenting word and photographic pictures of their lives. The February issue devoted 27 pages to a Cedar Rapids, Iowa family. In April, the Journal will carry similar articles on the family of a Dallas insurance executive. The principal stories in the series are being written by J. C. Furnas. The Chamber of Commerce furnished a great deal of background information on Dallas during Mr. Furnas' visit to the city last Fall.

Son tan completos los servicios que la Dallas & North Texas Foreign Trade Association proporciona a nuestros industriales que equivalen en realidad a los servicios que generalmente son a cargo de una firma de exportación, con la gran ventaja de que estos servicios que proporciona nuestra Asociación ó Departamento Exterior de la Cámara de Comercio de Dallas son sin costo alguno, siendo ésta una gran oportunidad para nuestros exportadores ya que les facilita un margen superior en sus precios de venta, lo que equivale a un costo inferior de producción y manipulación.

of community property laws in Texas, individuals in the higher income brackets effect substantial savings in their federal income taxes by filing separate returns for husband and wife, action that is not permitted in states that do not have a community property law.

Dallas offers to manufacturers and distributors of oil field equipment and supplies all of the advantages enumerated plus substantial savings in time of delivery and distribution costs. To the 148 principal oil field points there is an average saving from Dallas as compared with Houston of 16 per cent in freight charges and 28 per cent as compared with Tulsa. Because of its central location, and because of the highly efficient transportation system that Dallas has built up in serving all parts of the Southwest, there is an average saving of from 12 to 18 hours on deliveries from Dallas as compared with competing cities in this section. Supply companies may therefore establish manufacturing or distribution facilities in Dallas and get maximum benefits from its central location.

Another "state presidency" was added recently to Dallas' impressive list of trade association honors when the Texas Hotel Association chose as its 1940 president George C. Scott, operator of the Scott Hotel of Dallas. Don Stewart of the Stoneleigh Hotel, Dallas, was named one of the association's directors.

Beautiful, substantial and modern, the Allen Building stands clear on all sides for light and ventilation. Equipment, service and reputation unsurpassed. Conservative in tenant selection.

Dallas Builds 52 Miles Of New Homes in 1939

IMAGINE a new street twenty-six miles long, completely filled on both sides with new homes.

That is Dallas' 1939 residential construction record. Three thousand, nine hundred and fifty-one new residential units constructed in one city in a single year!

If each unit had been placed on a sixty-foot front lot, allowing a fifty-foot street intersection at the end of every standard city block, the new homes built in Dallas last year would have completely lined one side of U. S. Highway 75 from Dallas to Corsicana.

These statements are based on the report of the Dallas Power and Light Co., whose records show that 3,310 single-family residences were completed and started taking electric service during 1939, plus 641 one-family units in apartment buildings, a total equivalent of 3,951 single family residential units for the year.

Further, the report showed a total equivalent of 623 single-family units actually under construction in Dallas on December 31, 1939. This total was made up of 513 single-family residences, 27 duplex apartment houses, two four-apartment buildings, two eight-apartment buildings, two ten-apartment buildings, and one twelve-apartment building.

Instead of being concentrated on a single street twenty-six miles long, the new homes built in Dallas during 1939 were distributed over every section of Greater Dallas.

The total of 3,951 units built during the year marked 1939 as one of the greatest—if not the greatest—residential construction periods in Dallas' history, and was eloquent proof of the city's great growth.

While slumping more than a third from the $10,541,263 total of October, building permits in 35 Texas cities for November surpassed the November, 1938, figure by 3.7 per cent, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has announced.

Permits for last month totaled $6,654,156 in the 35 cities.

Annual Meeting Held

On January 6th, the Dennis G. Colwell Agency of Dallas held its annual "get together" party at the home of its founder, Dennis G. Colwell, at 6:30 o'clock. The agency, founded December 1st, 1931 has held annual parties.

Honored guests at this occasion were Oliver C. Thornton, Vice President and Mrs. Thornton from the home office, Kansas City, Missouri. Other members of the party included Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Savage, Jack Yesner and mother, Miss Ruby Cornelius, Secretary of the Agency; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Green; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Millard; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Russell; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hart; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Huckabee; Mr. and Mrs. Buie; Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Watkins of the Fort Worth Agency; and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Krauss of Wichita Falls Agency.

Although of a strictly social nature, these parties have been held annually by Mr. Colwell during the past eight consecutive years because his agency has been the leading agency in production for the Midland Life Insurance Company.

A. M. Matson Retires As Butler's Manager

A. M. MATSON, whose business and civic careers in Dallas have spanned the city's growth from 92,000 to nearly 400,000 population, has announced his intention to retire February 1 as general manager of Butler Brothers, after fifty-four years of service with the firm.

J. Frank Martino, assistant general manager and sales manager, has been named to succeed Mr. Matson. Fred E. Johnstone, sales manager of the company's San Francisco branch, will be transferred to Dallas to succeed Mr. Martino as sales manager. Mr. Johnstone has been in Butler Brothers' employ since 1920, starting in Minneapolis as a salesman. He has been sales manager of the San Francisco branch since 1931.

A. M. MATSON

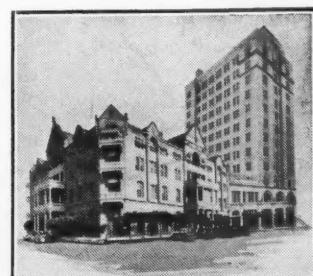

J. FRANK MARTINO

Mr. Matson has always been active in civic work in Dallas as well as a leader in business. He is a director of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, a director of the State Fair of Texas, and a director of the First National Bank in Dallas. He has

Griffith Named Manager of Firestone Store

Balie Griffith has been appointed general manager of Skinnie & Jimmie Firestone Store at Ross and Harwood, Ralph W. McCann, district manager, announced recently.

Mr. Griffith, formerly assistant manager of the Dallas district, succeeds Harry Powell who has been transferred to Firestone's general offices at Akron. Beginning with Firestone eleven years ago as a territory salesman, Mr. Griffith progressed to a store manager in 1935 and was appointed assistant district manager of the Dallas district in January, 1939. Although born in Birmingham, Alabama, Mr. Griffith moved to Dallas in 1914 and has lived here most of his life. He attended the old Bryan High School, later going to Kemper Military School, and received his college training at Suwannee where he was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is also a member of the Dallas Executives Association, Glen Lakes Country Club and the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

also served ably on several of the Chamber's most important committees.

He was born in Denmark, and came to America at the age of four. As a lad, he obtained a job as clerk in the merchandising division of Butler Brothers in Chicago. He advanced steadily with Butler Brothers, national distributors of merchandise, until in 1898 he was sent to St. Louis as head of the merchandising division of the company's new branch there. When Butler Brothers selected Dallas for its Southwestern branch in 1910, Mr. Matson was sent here to supervise erection of its mammoth building on South Ervy Street. When the Dallas house was opened in 1911, he was made general manager, a position he has held ever since. In 1919 he was elected to the board of directors of Butler Brothers. He holds the distinction of having been in the firm's employ longer than any other employee in the history of the company.

His successor, Mr. Martino, is 41 years of age, and a graduate of the University of Illinois. He came with Butler Brothers as a salesman in 1921, was made sales manager in 1932, and in 1938 he was appointed assistant general manager of the Dallas house, assuming those duties along with his work as sales manager.

Dallas' Market Enters New Era

"Another, and all-important factor, in the success of the Dallas Market is its fashion prestige. The Apparel Division of the Market has been highly successful. It early realized that climate and tradition gave the women of the Southwest individualized tastes and a highly-developed fashion-consciousness. They have made the most of their opportunity, creating and merchandising fashions designed for the Southwest—fashions which have meant additional margins of profit for the merchants of the Southwest.

"Today the Dallas Apparel Market ranks as one of the three or four key fashion centers of America. Its manufacturing and wholesale Apparel Market is just as nationally famous as the Dallas Retail Market has become for its fashion leadership."

Every member of the Dallas Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association is ready for the Spring Market Season with complete selections of merchandise, and an array of services which no other market could offer the retailers of the Southwest.

In addition to the displays in the individual houses, and the modeling of apparel on the sales floors of the various manufacturers and wholesalers, there is also a cooperative entertainment program arranged for the retailers who visit the market.

The Southwest Style Show Association, closely affiliated with the Manufacturers and Wholesalers Division of the Chamber of Commerce, will present the fortieth semi-annual fashion revues in Fair Park Auditorium the nights of January 23 and January 30. Capacity audiences of 5,000 persons are expected at each of the shows. Tickets are distributed to the retail merchants through the style show exhibitors and other members of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers division.

Thirty-six of Dallas' most beautiful girls will model dresses, coats, lingerie, shoes, hosiery, hats and accessories for the sixteen exhibitors in the Southwestern Style Shows.

Kathryn Duffy's sparkling revue, "Hello, Beautiful", has been engaged for the two style shows, and will be blended with the debut parades of Spring fashions to give the Market's guests entertainment along with the business opportunity of selecting the apparel which they will order from the market. "Hello, Beautiful" features such stars as Gayle Robbins, Frank Payne, Dale Taylor and the Grand Hotel Chorus.

Following the shows, the Market's guests will remain for dancing in the Dallas Towel Supply Co.

Founded in 1889

In 1904 Henry Boazman bought the Logan Towel Supply Company which was established in Dallas in 1889. The company supplied towels, linens, uniforms, chairs, cabinets, soaps and service garments for doctors, dentists, barbers, bakers, butlers, nurses, grocers and waiters. In the past twenty years other businesses have been added to the list of customers, chief among them being beauticians. The firm name was changed to Dallas Towel Supply Co.

HOWARD BOAZMAN

The plant of the Dallas Towel Supply Company, 2511-19 Commerce Street, has been constantly modernized.

One large department of the company is devoted entirely to designing uniforms and costumes and service garments for customers wishing something distinctive. These garments are owned by the Dallas Towel Supply Company and are kept in excellent condition. All linens and uniforms selected by a customer are consistently returned to that customer.

In 1935 Henry Boazman died and his son, Howard Boazman, who has served as manager since that time, took over the business.

Port Arthur Reports Business Uptrend

With building, postal receipts, bank clearings, and other business indices on the uptrend, Port Arthur during 1939 kept pace with the Texas prosperity parade, a checkup showed.

Building, chiefly residential, in Port Arthur and three suburban communities involved an expenditure of more than $2,000,000 last year. New construction and expansion at nearby oil refineries cost several thousand dollars, although no definite figures were given.

Bank deposits last year rose to $10,438,113.72, a record. Postal receipts totaled $156,987.81.

Merchants reported an all-time high in pre-Christmas business.

The State Highway Department has issued work orders on Dallas County contracts totaling $563,000, including the Northwest Connection road, the Turney Street underpass, and another underpass on the Illinois by-pass.

Visiting retail merchants will also be entertained the evening of January 24, at a cabaret dinner-dance to be given in the Baker Hotel by the American Fashion Association, Inc. The American Fashion Association, Inc., is composed of the sales representatives of more than 200 lines of women's apparel, who will have sample room displays in the Baker Hotel the first week of the Dallas Spring Market Season.

Though dropping somewhat below the preceding month, postal receipts last month in 35 Texas cities topped those of November, 1938, by 1.7 per cent, to total $1,335,977, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported.

Bids were to be opened January 17 on the $500,000 addition of two floors to the Terminal Post Office Building in Dallas. The additional floors will make the block square structure a five-story post office and Federal office building. The present three-story building was completed 18 months ago.

Streamlined Protection that Pays the Policyholder

25% on Fire Insurance

By streamlining insurance service — selling direct and insuring only preferred risks—the Employers Casualty Company effects substantial savings on the cost of providing protection. This saving, which at the present time amounts to 25 per cent on Fire Insurance, 15 per cent on Automobile Insurance, is returned to policyholders in the form of DIVIDENDS.

STOCK COMPANY INSURANCE

Since Employers Casualty Company is a stock company affording all the safeguards of sound, stock company insurance, you can save with safety the Employers Casualty way. DIVIDENDS are paid out of savings effected by the Company's direct-selling, preferred-risk plan of doing business, NEVER out of funds maintained for the protection of policyholders.

If you have fire, automobile or other property insurance expiring this year, why not transfer it to the Employers Casualty Company and take advantage of this saving?

The Texas Employers Insurance Association, Texas' largest writer of workmen's compensation insurance, saved and returned to policyholders $859,517.38 in DIVIDENDS during 1939 alone, making total dividends paid to date of $8,128,626.41.

280,000 MILES FOR SAFETY

In addition to this the Association has helped Texas industry save hundreds of thousands of dollars through the reduction of industrial accidents. Last year Association Safety Engineers traveled more than 280,000 miles in the interest of safety—inspecting plants, investigating the causes of accidents, eliminating or guarding hazards, making safety talks, teaching safety to industrial workers, making industrial surveys.
